Description

BERYLLINE HUMMINGBIRD

Unlike any other western hummingbird, the Berylline inhabits the mountains, oak forests and woodland forests of Arizona and is widespread throughout Mexico. It is a glittery metallic green with rufous in the wings and tail. A solitary bird, it feeds on nectar and insects and is often found diving at other hummingbirds chasing them from flowers. It bathes itself by hovering against a leaf wet with dew.

This exquisite carving shows the hummingbird with its delicate wings spread. It is suspended in a flower on a wire stand and can be easily removed from the flower (or glued in, if you choose.)

All of our life-size birds are hand-carved from basswood (a very carveable wood that does not split and takes paint well), hand-feathered to show detail and painted with acrylic paint. The eyes are glass, feet are metal and base is wood.

The hummingbird carving measures 5 inches from beak to tail, is 2.75 inches high and with the stand has an overall height of 10.5 inches.
